£45

Many well-documented stories are in this book – of the one-armed Roezl being trapped on an active volcano, of the fashion-conscious Ruiz taking a silver chamber pot on his expedition to Peru, of the English collector being murdered by his native wife, and Orchids, Orchids, Orchids. Of a modest Lincolnshire lass and the bombastic and treacherous German taxonomist, and Orchids, Orchids, Orchids. Stories of the Orchid Nurseries of Linden, Loddiges and Low, of Bull, Williams, Sander, Veitch and Booth – Booth? – and Orchids, Orchids, Orchids.

A history of Masdevallias and so much more. The stories behind the names of the orchids we grow and love.

Neither a cultural guide nor encyclopedia, this book is factual and with over 1,000 coloured illustrations, some never previously published, is a joy to the eye. It contains a wealth of biographical details of both plants and people, and the stories it contains will captivate the interest of non-orchid buffs.
